The select city.

Donostia, bakarra munduan (“Donostia, unique in the world”), lyrics of the San Sebastian March composed in 1861 and sung every 20th January for expectant Donostiarras (people from San Sebastian), expresses the best definition of this city. Just three words to describe its exceptional uniqueness.

This originality can be seen in its history and its way of life. A fishing port that was the cradle of pirates and a Belle Epoque style architecture inherited from its aristocratic past.

Donostia-San Sebastian is blue surrounded by green. It is famous for its perfect shell-shaped bay that caresses three extensive beaches, crowned in the centre by an island with the only south-facing beach in the Basque Country.

Traditional and avant-garde cuisine go hand-in-hand here with the highest concentration of Michelin-star restaurants in the world. Every year it hosts an international Film Festival, welcomes the best jazz artists in summertime and boasts art and culture in the streets and museums.

You disembark in beautiful San Sebastian and gradually immerse yourself in Donostia, an intense city that celebrates culture and the good life.

There are many ways to visit the city, one of most photographed in the world, but if you want to discover the essence of a San Sebastian that lures you to perceive small pleasures with great intensity, here is the secret.

on this page — The Concha Bay boasts an unassailable beauty whichever way you look at it.

The seductive city.

San Sebastian is clearly, iconically and undeniably beautiful. But it also holds secrets waiting to be told, miracles that ensue when you are on your guard, enchanting nooks and crannies keen to be discovered. The place and the moment of seduction. Delicate and unforgettable. Let yourself be carried away.

on this page — Travelling the winding road that leads to Monte Igeldo lighthouse is one way of enjoying the magnetic beauty of the city.

The favoured city.

Fortunate in the distribution of its attractiveness, San Sebastian is surrounded by magnetic topography, with a bay like no other in the world, three beaches, an estuary and a coastline sculpted by an inspired artist. And then, crowning this natural beauty, delicate and exciting artificial delights have been added. A life less ordinary. A fortunate life that we would like to share with you.

— San Sebastian is also a spectacular open-air museum where you can see sculptures such as Empty Construction by Jorge Oteiza, or the Hondalea installation, the work of Cristina Iglesias located in the lighthouse on Santa Clara Island through which water flows, reminiscent of sea currents. Or Chillida Leku, the museum that covers the life and several of the most significant works of the Donostia / San Sebastián sculptor Eduardo Chillida. And very close, in Getaria, the Balenciaga Museum, dedicated to the great fashion designer born in this town.

The inspiring city.

Just imagine: this is where Chillida was born. Here are a few of his most significant works and, just a few kilometres away, there is a museum that exhibits his life's work. However, there is much more: Oteiza, Balenciaga, San Telmo Museum, Zinemaldia film festival, the Donostiara Choir. San Sebastian is lush and cultivated, a land nurtured by influences from all over the world, but which also has its own identity and the oldest language in Europe, Basque. It has a delicate fragrance of culture.

— San Sebastian is a city to savour in tapas bars or Michelin-star restaurants. An incredible fare full of flavour and subtleties.

The savoury city.

Some cities can be seen and others, like San Sebastian, can be savoured: you taste them little by little to appreciate the subtleties, so that the textures, colours, aromas and sensations remain in your mouth and in your memory forever. Whether in tapas bars, in cider houses or in the largest concentration of Michelin-star restaurants in the world, this city elaborates thousands of gastronomic delights every single day. We have selected some of the best. Emotion is served.

on this page — The watchtowers that crown Mount Urgull offer spectacular views of the island and the bay.

right — San Sebastian's three beaches, each with its own character, are considered among the best urban beaches in Europe.

The homely city.

It might be because it's a small city. Or maybe it's the Basque character - reserved but dependable and generous. The fact is that we like to share what we have and what we are with people who sincerely wish to get to know us. Come with us to authentic places that only those who live here really know. Please, make yourself at home. Feel like you are from San Sebastian and enjoy yourself as if you were one of us. Welcome, Ongi Etorri.
